From The Air Conditioner

- Regular Employee 2: I'm kind of cold, I think it's really unbelievable but you know how the office air conditioner is set to 23° and it's on high all the time?
- Regular Employee 1: Yes
- Regular Employee 2: It's weird, the air conditioner, I mean, 23° and on high, is too unbelievable, I think, really, I mean it almost makes me laugh but, um, I'm like, what do you call it, I tend to have poor circulation a little
- Regular Employee 1: Oh, for women, it might be, a little bit rough, yeah,
- Regular Employee 2: Yes, or like, it's the poor circulation, really, not that I'm a woman but, you know?
- Regular Employee 1: Yes
- Regular Employee 2: Or like. But yes, yes, I am aware of that, I'm conscious of it, I don't know but
- Regular Employee 1: Women, yeah, I feel sorry for them
- Regular Employee 2: But, yeah, maybe that is why, I am aware of it, I am conscious of that possibility,
- Regular Employee 1: For women
- Regular Employee 2: That's right, yes, I mean not for women but
- Regular Employee 1: They really have it rough
- Regular Employee 2: Rough, or like, really it's always, what I'm saying is,
- Regular Employee 1: Yes
- Regular Employee 2: When I'm at work, I'm not joking, the state I'm in, I am so cold, I'm miserable, I mean
- Regular Employee 1: Oh, but Remé, your pain is

Regular Employee 2: Seriously, it's enough to make me quit this job

Regular Employee 1: Oh, Remé, well I kinda understand what you're saying

Regular Employee 2: when I'm at work, I'm not joking, the state I'm in, I am so cold, I'm miserable, I mean

Regular Employee 1: Oh, but Remé, your pain is

Regular Employee 2: Seriously, it's enough to make me quit this job
